CLASH OVER STATEHOOD POSTPONED ONCE MORE

Washington, June 8—Though no agreement has been made it is likely that the clash in the Senate on the statehood report will not come until Tuesday. Mr. Foraker himself desires that the consideration be deferred to then.

Mr. Foraker's reasons in asking that it be deferred were that two of the senators who are supporting him desire to leave the city for a few days and they have not been able to make pairs.

Whether Mr. Foraker is correct in believing that he has a majority back of him in his desire to reject the conference report no one knows. The fact that he has been willing to defer consideration until Tuesday has suggested to some that he is not quite sure of his majority. The suspicion is encouraged by the knowledge that if need be Mr. Foraker's followers are prepared to filibuster.

If the conference report should be adopted by the Senate, that, of course, would assure statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory, because the House would do likewise with much alacrity and enthusiasm. If the Senate should reject it, or if its acceptance should be prevented by a filibuster, then the House would hardly get an opportunity to express its will unless the Democrats exert that boon by means of their filibuster.

Altogether it seems that the best hope for statehood is by means of the sundry civil bill.

Needed Shoes.

This morning two negroes employed by the construction company walked into Chapman's shoe store. One had a coat hanging from his shoulder and while his side partner selected a pair of shoes to be laid away, he helped himself to a very fine pair of shoes, a special order for a customer. Mr. Chapman's suspicions were aroused and he looked in the box after the fellow walked out, only to find them missing. He went after the fellow, pulled the coat from his shoulder and found the shoes. Marshal Brents was standing near and arrested Mr. Nigger and he is now in jail.

HITCHCOCK WANTS MORE MONEY FOR COMMISSION

Washington, June 8.—Secretary Hitchcock has requested of Congress an additional appropriation of $100,000 for the use of the Five Civilized Tribes. The Indian appropriation bill carries $200,000 for the Commission, so if this additional amount is given, its work for the next fiscal year will cost $300,000. The Secretary transmits a copy of a telegram from Tams Bixby, who says the additional appropriation is made necessary by the increased work resulting from the passage of the five tribes bill.

GOVERNOR FRANTZ ISSUES FLAG DAY PROCLAMATION

Guthrie, Ok., June 8.—Governor Frank Frantz has issued the following flag day proclamation:

"The one hundred and twenty-ninth anniversary of the American flag will occur June 14, 1907. In lieu of this fact and in accordance with the growing custom, of the general, well-known national, observance, I hereby call upon the people of Oklahoma to turn their minds upon this anniversary day to these great principles which have become the acknowledged sum and substance of our high civilization.

"Especially do I recommend the recollection and recounting by old and young alike, of those deeds of self-sacrifice and heroism performed by our revolutionary forbears in establishing freedom and a fit home for freedom's offspring—the free institutions now our secure possessions, the pride of the nation's advancing citizenship, the envy of the world.

"The flag of the United States means everything to us as a nation. In the shining folds of the stars and stripes the humblest citizen of the land reads the story of his priceless heritage, the oppressed of every country reads the story of its refuge, the laborer worthy of his hire reads his rights to the fruits of his toil and enjoyment of the same, the mother gloriously yielding up her soldier or sailor boy reads the message of "consolation in the thanks of the republic they died to save."

"The birthday of our flag: Long and ever may the nation observe this anniversary with fitting tribute of remembrance and the renewal of our allegiance to the cause for which it stands throughout the world."

Case Continued.

The members of the baseball nine, who were arrested the first of the week, were up before Mayor Wood Friday morning for trial. The case was continued until Monday, June 18. The point being contested is the legality of Sunday ball. The outcome of the case will be eagerly watched. There are hundreds of men who are employed during the week who have no opportunity to witness a ball game except on Sunday. These hate to be deprived of an opportunity to see their favorite game.

OKLAHOMA WILL BE PROMINENT AT JAMESTOWN

In line with the leading states of the Union, Oklahoma, the prospective new state, will participate in the Jamestown Exposition at Norfolk, Virginia, next year. Wherever Oklahoma has made an exhibit at an exhibition it was creditable and drew favorable attention to that territory, hence it is safe to assume that the Oklahoma exhibit at the Jamestown Exposition will be worthy of that prospective state.

A choice site has been selected by Governor Frantz at the exposition grounds for the Oklahoma building and work will begin as soon as the plans have been decided upon. Gov. Frantz describes the Oklahoma site as admirable. It has a slight elevation and overlooks the historic waters of Hampton Roads. The Oklahoma building at the exposition will probably be of a colonial design and will be a permanent structure thus saving the territory from loss in its disposition after the exposition is over.

It is singularly appropriate that the territory which is still the home of the remnants of some of the great Indian tribes of the past, should participate in an international exposition on the shores of Hampton Roads, where in years gone by, the most powerful Indian tribes of the American continent lived and perished. It is also appropriate that Oklahoma, the most progressive of commonwealths, should be seen at the great exposition to commemorate the first permanent English settlement in America and the three centuries of American progress.—Oklahoman.

Forty-Two Club.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reed entertained the Forty-two Club Thursday night in a very enjoyable manner. A feature of the evening was some very fine music by Miss Case and Miss Fulton which was greatly appreciated. Besides the regular club members the following guests were entertained:

Miss Fulton, Miss Case, Misses Mildred and Pinkie Timberlake and Susie Higgins. Messrs. Mautin Timberlake, Ed Harraway, Joe Garner and J. T. Conn.

RATE BILL GOES BACK TO CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

Washington, June 8.—After pummelling it for two days the Senate has sent the rate bill back to conference with two very black eyes. It is apt to be considerably changed when it is brought out again. The anti-pass amendment is likely to go out entirely, for the effort to make one exception has resulted much as does the attempt to give the tree a gentle shake that only one mulberry will fall.

When it tried during the pendancy of the bill to except railroad employees from the bill the Senate got such momentum that it barely restrained itself from excepting football and baseball players. The debate of the last few days has betrayed the same remarkable divergence of opinion and it is extremely probable that the anti-pass section will be eliminated. Congress thus acknowledges itself either unwilling or unable to restrict the issuance of passes within reasonable limitations.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

ADA EVENING NEWS.

OFFICIAL CITY PAPER.

OTIS B. WEAVER

PUBLISHER

M. D. STEINER,

BUSINESS MANAGER

Entered as Second Class Matter March 26, 1904, at the Postoffice at Ada, Indian Territory, under the Act of Congress March 3, 1869.

Advertising rates furnished on application.

YES, Aunt Sally, the News has the contract for the city printing. Pass the pie!

THE NEWS WILL ENLARGE AND IMPROVE

The News is adding several hundred dollars worth of new equipment to its already superior plant and will within ten days, statehood or no statehood furnish its friends, the people of Ada just double the local and home printed matter than appears at present. We have always believed in a most positive way that the future of Ada was assured and that presently it would become one of the strongest little cities in the prospective new state. Such confidence was suggested when more than two years ago we began the publication of a daily paper. That confidence is proved when in the face of many difficulties and discouragements we have since continuously published a daily edition, and one of a character, we believe, satisfactory to the town and complimentary to it in the estimation of the press and people throughout the two territories.

Recently there was placed before us a carefully audited, recapitulated showing of the business of the News during the previous twelve months, which showed a loss of nearly $800. Notwithstanding this we immediately began negotiating for a standard $3500 Mergenthaler linotype. This is an indication of our abiding confidence in the flattering future of Ada. We shall not be content until the people of this town have one of the very best daily papers in the territory.

While the negotiations mentioned were in progress unfortunately there occurred the great San Francisco fire which produced an instantaneous demand for an enormous number of those machines. The Mergenthaler monopoly, through the kindness of the tariff, controls the linotype output in this country, and the Frisco order being more important than ours the manufacture and delivery of a machine would not be promised to us earlier than late fall. The News will install a standard linotype before the end of the year.

In the meantime the fire and earthquake and a Republican congress and the two or three disgruntled town knockers—and we deplore the latter the most—shall not retard the advancement of the News.

Within two weeks we shall appear in new dress out and out, and enlarged and improved, and with special wire service installed. We shall continue to pay our bills and work with all our might for the upbuilding of Ada and surrounding country, and subscribe toward charity and for public benefits, commensurately with our investments in the city as much as anyone.

CHARMS THAT BRING LUCK

Superstitions of Bridge Players—Houses and Seats That Are Unlucky.

It is now obvious that the portion of society which takes its gambling seriously—it is a very large portion indeed—has become very superstitious. An instance in point is the buying of the ankh which, as now sold in Bond street in gold and jewels, is extremely popular, says the London Daily Mail.

The ankh is the sign of life, and consequently of good luck striving against bad; a symbol of Egyptian origin composed of a headless cross attached to a stirrup circle.

Gambling has always gone hand in hand with belief in the efficacy of charms, but the fair votaries of bridge go much further and there are endless little ceremonies which are supposed to militate for or against their chance of winning.

A charming lady who might, without undue conceit, have styled herself "one who knows," quotes an instance: "Whenever you cut for a fresh deal or after a rubber," she said, "the one who cuts lowest has, as you know, the choice of cards and seats, and they invariably turn the winning people out of their seats and choose the winning pack." Sometimes they elect to sit against the hinges of the table, because that is the lucky side.

As for the charms which are supposed to bring luck, their name is legion; the most favored are little dwarfs, lucky sixpences and the New Zealand greenstone.

It must not be supposed that these superstitions are confined to the ladies. Two well known card players at White's are extremely proud of possessing some pieces of a hangman's rope, and from the possession of these trophies they date their good luck.

Certain houses are considered lucky to play in, though of course a house which is lucky for one player may be unlucky for the other. Particular clubs also are much in favor among card players.

EXTRAVAGANCE FOR THE DEAD.

Burial customs were once modest with our people. But complicated and costly living appears to have made simple dying impossible, remarks the New York Mail. We run to weak ostentation in the surroundings and trappings of mortality. It is necessary to obtain this, to purchase that; it is the only good form, nothing else will do.

It is the consideration of the living that we think about, not the simple respect due the dead. We forget that the costlier the earthly memoria! we erect the shallower may be the record that we cut upon the tablets of our hearts.

He tells the story of an automobile who met an elderly couple driving a skittish horse which decidedly objected to passing the unknown vehicle.

The driver of the car stopped to offer his aid, but the man declined it with the remark:

"If you'll lead my old woman by, I guess the boss and I can make it all right."

Another horse and horses yarn comes from a man in Oregon. He says:

"When I bought my car, I marveled that the company could sell it for $1,550. Now I marvel that they could sell it at any price. Marveling is the cheapest part of the proposition, I find."

"My particular marvel out in my barn reminds me of the man who built so much stone fence in one day that it took him two days to walk back to where he began. My car will take me—sometimes—so far from home in two hours that it takes the rest of the day for me to drive home with a provisionally hired horse."

FACTS ABOUT SAFETY PIN.

Obliging Clerk Imparts Interesting Information Concerning the Article.

"One dozen safety pins. Twelve cents. Thank you, madam," said the clerk. "Your change will be here in one moment."

She was very pretty. He was young. A conversation sprang up.

"There is a strange story connected with the safety pin," the clerk said.

"An Englishman invented this pin some 30 or 40 years ago. For this admirable invention he was highly honored.

Plaudits and applause were showered upon him. If I am not mistaken, the man was even knighted.

"And about three years ago, in excavating in Pompeii, they came upon what do you think? A perfect safety pin. Hundreds of perfect bronze safety pins. The Englishman's invention wasn't new at all. It was 2,000 years old."

"The man had been feted and honored all his life, he had even been knighted, for an invention that he didn't invent."

GERMAN GIRLS' SCHOOLING

No Colleges for Them in Their Own Country, But They Have a "Pension."

The German girl leaves school at about 15 years of age, by which time she has learned to sew, mend, and supposedly to speak English and French. She has not learned higher mathematics, says Modern Women, but she has learned the small things which fit a girl for a housewife or companion, and that in Germany, is woman's only sphere.

However much we American girls may enjoy our colleges we dare not pity the German girls, for they have something which takes their place and of which we can have no conception until we reside in Germany a few months.

Did you ever hear of a pension? It is one of the most enjoyable things which exists. Certain influential ladies, mostly widows or maiden aunts, make known that they are willing to take a limited number of young ladies into their family.

We went to Hanover, two of us girls, with a horror and dread of a boarding school, as we heard a pension described. We found ourselves in a family of eight girls, all from the very best class of Germans, and all placed under Frau von H—'s care for a year or more.

None of the girls had any special object in life; a few wanted to learn how to keep house, a few indulged in an hour's music lesson per week, but most of them came, as is the German custom, for the sake of becoming polished, and being escorted to concerts, theaters, balls, receptions, student Kneipen, etc., opportunities not afforded in smaller cities, and even not in many cities that are larger than Hanover.

Consequently our chaperon accepted invitations for her girls, parties were given and the great intimate family spent a year full of pleasure.

Grand Exhibition

Of roping and broncho busting for the benefit of the fire department at ball park Saturday at 4:00 p. m. Texas Joe and Lon Seeley will turn wild steers loose and catch them from the back of a running horse without a rope and throw and tie them down. Texas Joe and Lon Seeley are the only people who have ever given a public exhibition of this kind. They also rope and tie them against time. Clyde Compton, the champion lasso artist will give an exhibition of expert foot-racing, catching from one to four feet of a running horse. A. W. Bennett, known as Oklahoma's most famous slick saddle broncho rider, will ride any mule or horse you bring in free of charge. The higher the jump the better we like them. Lon Seeley will ride two steers with out a saddle. Oklahoma Bill, Lon Seeley, Clyde Compton and Texas Joe will also give an exhibition of roping and tying steers. Admission 15 and 25c.

"Marshal."

The small boys of town are in a fair way to get themselves into serious trouble. They have become enthused with a game they call "marshal." There are a number who play fugitives and another party of marshals. The chase is a wild one and leads through yards, gardens, barns and the more devious the route the finer the game. It's all right for boys to have their fun but they must keep out of private property. Many persons are complaining of damage done to gardens and of barn doors and gates being left open. If the boys don't confine their play to the streets and alleys the really for sure marshal is going to join in the chase.

Told of Capt. Hobson.

The nomination of Captain Richmond P. Hobson for Congress in the Sixth District of Alabama, recalls a story. John Hollis Bankhead, whom Hobson defeated for the nomination, is a Confederate veteran and has represented the district for twenty years. Several years ago there was a bill before the naval committee to transfer Hobson to the retired list of the navy "as for disability incurred in the line of duty." Hobson charged that Bankhead prevented a favorable report of this bill, and, it is said, determined to oppose him in his district. Upon the failure of the bill Hobson resigned from the navy. Bankhead is 64 and Hobson 36, and both are Alabamians. —K. C. Journal.

WOLVES NEAR CITY

INDIANA FARMERS CAPTURE FARMYARD MARAUDERS.

Ferocious Beasts Slay Sheep and Calves Within an Hour's Ride of Great Metropolis.

Chicago.—Five wolves captured and some still free within rifle shot of where stupendous manufacturing interests are being rapidly developed serve to emphasize the theory that, after all, civilization is, as yet, only a step removed from savagery. In the Calumet district of Indiana, scarcely more than an hour's ride from Chicago, the natives are boasting of recent wolf exploits and hoping for more to come.

For some time tracks that old timers declared were those of wolves had been seen. Scoffers pronounced it impossible, but more tracks were seen. Strange noises were heard at night; chickens disappeared; even a sheep or two and small calves were killed and partly devoured.

Finally George Hamper, in charge of a clubhouse and the surrounding farm, killed a full grown wolf and skinning it carefully, had the skin stuffed and mounted. Hunters, of course, envied Hamper's good fortune. However, this was not the only opportunity afforded. The depredations continued.

Wolves were often seen in the gray of early morning seizing chickens and devouring such carcasses of animals as had not been buried.

No one secured another successful shot and apparently the wolf pack was thriving and waxing larger and bolder. Several farmers along the river set traps, only to find them empty morning after morning.

Hampers determined upon trying his fortunes as a trapper. He hauled refuse, throwing it into considerable piles in such position as to form a hollow square, in the center of which was a dead horse. Between each two piles he set a strong trap so that to get at the meat the wolves must pass over the traps or leap over the piles.

Everything ready, Hamper and his men were anxious for the morning. It came, but no wolf was cowering in a trap. The next day, however, as they were husking corn one of the men declared that he saw something moving among the refuse piles.

It proved to be a full grown wolf, and a male. How to secure him alive without encountering danger puzzled them a little; but one of the men cut a forked stick and held it upon his neck with sufficient force to pin him to the ground and to prevent him turning his head to bite.

Next a strap was slipped under his body and moved forward until it could be buckled about his neck. A chain fastened to the strap provided a means by which he could be tied.

Throwing blankets over the animal, the men took the wolf to a building at the club where he was chained very much like one of his cousins, the watch dogs.

Since then three more wolves have succumbed to the prowess of Hamper, who is still awaiting a material reward in the form of bounty offered for wolf scalps.

BOY MAKES RICH DISCOVERY

Rich Store of Relics Unearthed by Youngster in Ancient Athens.

Athens.—A boy's find of some little leaden figures at Lemnaeum, near Sparta, has led to the discovery of a rich store of relics, which were the offerings to the goddess Artemis Orthia, whose temple stood on the site in the days of ancient Greece.

Excavations, immediately commenced under the direction of Guy Dickins, of Oxford, revealed thousands of little objects, beautifully carved or cast in terra cotta, ivory, lead, bronze, gold and silver. There are terra cotta goddesses, ivory warriors, gold and silver ornaments, pottery and masks of quaint design, besides quantities of leaden images representing figures, animals, armor and fabulous monsters.

For three days the excavations produced these objects, and an inscription was brought to light on the fourth. It was a dedication to the Goddess Artemis Orthia by the victors in an athletic contest.

The prospects of the excavations in and around Lemnaeum are so good that the government is adding two new rooms to the Sparta museum.

Daughter of Countess a Genius. A precocious little girl of Brussels, 15 years old and an inventor, has designed and patented a remarkable device, consisting of a turntable for reversing the direction of motor cars and wagons. The apparatus is fixed on the chassis, which has a driving wheel at each end and is worked by an electric motor. The invention was the outcome of watching the difficulty of maneuvering heavy motor wagons in the Antwerp streets. The patent for the invention has been secured in the name of Esther de Susi, daughter of Comte de Susi.

FORTUNE FROM WRECK.

Australian Legislator Makes Lucky Purchase of Sunken Treasure Ship.

Melbourne.—A million dollars made from a wreck purchased for $750 is the romantic piece of luck that has befallen Hon. J. G. Alkman, member of the legislative council of Victoria.

Two years ago on June night the magnificent P. & O. steamship Australia, which cost nearly $3,000,000 to build, went ashore at the entrance to Port Phillip bay, a short distance from Melbourne. The vessel was subsequently put up at auction and knocked down to Mr. Alkman for $1,000. Afterward the auctioneer offered the cargo, which was purchased by Mr. Alkman for $750.

Soon divers went to work and the cargo was rescued. Dry goods, hardware and electro-plated ware were recovered in good condition. A valuable cargo of Muntz metal was also found, realizing over $3,700. Nine hundred tons of bar iron, bar steel, tool steel and shear steel were recovered from the wreck and sold for an average of $50 a ton. Seven hundred and forty tons of galvanized iron and 40 tons of steel were recovered during the first operations. After six months' operations it was decided to abandon the work, when an engineer suggested that the copper pipes, the brass fittings and other metal of the ship itself would be worth salvaging.

Operations were renewed and 219 tons of brass, copper and gun metal were saved, and 1,950 tons of scrap cast were obtained from the engine and other castings aboard. Five tandem and four tangye engines and a large quantity of pig iron were also got from the wreck. The four propeller blades, which consisted of phosphor or manganese bronze, and which weighed 14 tons, realized $5,000 as old metal.

Half the hull of the Australia still remains above water and quantities of brass, copper and gun metal have still to be recovered. It is estimated that Mr. Alkman's profits from the wreck are over a million dollars. Why the underwriters never removed the valuable cargo or failed to realize its value is a mystery.

TO LONGFELLOW'S SISTER.

Memorial Window Dedicated in Old Church to Which She Belonged.

Boston.—Honoring the exemplary life and works of Mrs. Mary Longfellow Greenleaf, sister of the poet Longfellow, 300 fair representatives of Cambridge aristocracy assembled in St. James' church recently to witness the unveiling of a magnificent window to her memory.

Facing the memorial chancel presented by Mrs. Greenleaf, the memorial window, which is in the west wall of the south transept, occupies a singularly appropriate position. It was designed by Harry Eldredge Goodhue, a former member of the parish.

It is 32 inches wide by 12 feet high and is divided into four panels. In the middle of the window is a panel which contains a life-size figure representing the Prophetess Anna bearing a lighted taper.

Standing out in bold relief is the following, which tells the history of the window itself:

"In loving memory of Mary Longfellow Greenleaf, widow of James Greenleaf, the Anna of this temple, 1816-1902. For nearly 30 years a communicant of this parish, its oldest member, and always its bountiful benefactor, her largest gift to it was herself. The sister of poets, her whole life was one long poem."

EXILED KING AND QUEEN.

Madagascar's Monarch Wants New Husband and Dahomy's Ruler a House.

Paris.—The exiled queen of Madagascar, Ranavalona, has just asked the permission of the minister of the colonies to contract a second marriage. The new aspirant to her hand is a wine grower of Orano, in Algiers. It is probable that the request of the former queen will be granted.

Benzinian, the former king of Dahomey, has just arrived at Blida, in Algiers, and is temporarily installed, with his suite, in the Hotel d'Orient, where he will remain until the house set aside for his use, which is the property of M. Bouvier, a retired French officer, who rents it to the French government, has been suitably furnished, according to the dusky king's tastes.

With the king are now installed at Blida his four wives, his three daughters and one son, named Ouanilo, who will be granted by the French government a purse to enable him to complete his course of studies at the high school in Algiers. Ouanilo is already half-civilized and speaks French fluently, acting as his father's interpreter.

Robin's Nest in Drawing Room.

Mrs. Armistead, Trefnant Glen, Garth, Anglesey (Eng.), says a robin is sitting on its nest of eggs in her drawing room. "The bird," she adds, "comes and goes through the window, which is left open on purpose, and although the members of the family are constantly in the room, together with a Persian cat and a fox terrier, the bird takes no heed of either, and the nest is built on the edge of a bookcase, which is in a recess at the far end of the room."

TROUBLE WITH ZULUS

BLACKS OF NATAL KEEP ENGLAND IN UNREST.

Natives Are Considered Boys Until They Kill in Battle, Hence the Frequent Warlike Outbreaks.

London.—The native uprising in Natal is beginning to assume such proportions that it is causing serious anxiety and South Africans generally are convinced that there is grave trouble to be faced with the natives sooner or later. Whether it will come as a result of the present rising in Natal depends probably upon the success of the military measures which the Natal government is now taking. The rebel chief, Bambata, with a force variously estimated at from 3,000 to 5,000, commands the main body of the rebels, but the other bodies are probably not large and seem to be scattered widely in mobile companies in the bush.

One night lately Mr. Stainbank, the English magistrate in the Mahlabatini district of Zululand, was shot dead while using the field telephone to Eshowe. His escort of three troopers failed to capture the murderers. The scene of the murder is close to the battlefield of Ulundi, where the last Zulu war ended. It is not thought that the murderers belong to Bambata's force, who are not likely to be so far from their center at Nandhla, and it is feared it marks the development of a fresh center of rebellion.

Col. Mackenzie, who is in supreme military command in Natal, with a column including a Dutch contingent which volunteered from the Transvaal and Royston's Irregular Horse, left Dundee for some destination in Zululand which up to the present has not been revealed.

The gravity of the situation, unless the expedition against the natives is speedily successful, cannot be exaggerated, according to South Africans.

The reason for the sudden violent native outbreak is disputed. Some declare that long seething discontent was brought to a head by the collection of the hut tax which is now proceeding, but the tax, which has long been paid, seems for the most part to be coming in quietly. Others believe that the present generation, deprived by long peace of the opportunity of "blooding their aegals," have gone on the warpath in order to do so and thus become "men" in the Zulu sense of the word and avoid the ignominy of remaining "boys."

SPURIOUS COINS IN GRAVE

Unaccountable Presence of Counterfeits in Recently Opened Sepulchre.

St. Louis.—Counterfeit coins bearing the date of 1899 and 1897 found in the grave of a man who died 15 years ago furnish a puzzle for the secret service agents at St. Louis. The coins were unearthed near Arden, Douglas county, Mo., recently, when the body of John Keenan was disinterred by relatives for removal to California.

Lee T. Philpot, secret service agent, returned from that locality with $64 of the spurious coins, which he recovered from B. H. Quick, a farmer, to whom they were turned over. Philpot was unable to get any clue as to where the money came from, and there were no traces of any bad money having been in circulation there recently. The "plant" is supposed to be an old one, made by some counterfeiter, who picked out a grave as the place least likely to be discovered in case of death.

The coins are badly rusted, but some of them are good imitations. The collection includes 18 dollars, 35 half dollars and 16 quarters. Keenan and his son, Rudolph Keenan, lived in an isolated spot in the Douglas county hills. Both died about the same time.

Philpot searched an old cabin where they lived for counterfeiting tools, but found none.

DANGER IN CLOTHES BRUSH

English Medical Authority Dilates Upon Menace to the Health.

London.—The current number of the Lancet devotes an article pointing out the danger of the clothes brush. It declares that the brushing of clothes in living rooms is a danger to health, as the bacteriology of dust distinctly indicates. After dilating upon the dangers of micro-organisms and pathogenic entities contained in the dust in our garments, the Lancet admits that clothes must be brushed, but in a household conducted on hygienic lines a special room should be relegated to the work. Even this, however, is insufficient for "brushing clothes is a clumsy and insanitary procedure, which might be superseded advantageously by some effectual and less offensive method. The use of some kind of vacuum brush would, sanitarily speaking, be ideal."

Disease Affects Reformers.

The specialists in diseases of the human mind have given the name "paranoia" to that form of insanity in which the victim labors under a delusion involving an exaggerated and irrational conception of his own importance, wisdom, wealth and accomplishments. The political doctors and students of public questions have discovered that a similar disease attacks a certain class of reformers and has often been the cause of the failure of reform movements.

RHEUMATISM GERM FOUND

Bacillus Said to Be Cause of the Disease Discovered by New York Doctor.

New York.—After 18 years of unavailing search by scientists all over the world, the germ that causes rheumatic fever or acute articular rheumatism has been discovered as the result of experiments in the Presbyterian Hospital laboratory of this city by Dr. Lewis Fox Frissell, attending physician to the Seton hospital. The discoverer declares rheumatism is infectious.

Dr. Frissell describes to the alumni of the Presbyterian hospital his experiments. He first made an effort to isolate an organism from the fluid drawn from the joints of a rheumatic patient. This was injected into the veins of rabbits without result. Next cultures were taken from the tonsils of persons suffering from both tonsillitis and articular rheumatism. Failure again.

Finally, the experimenter selected an alcoholic woman, who was found in a hospital ward suffering from articular rheumatism of 11 years' standing. A culture was taken from her tonsils. Germs were found, linked together in chains. A rabbit into which the germs were injected became lame as with rheumatism. The animal was killed and the germs taken from it were injected into ten other rabbits. All of these after a time developed the rheumatic symptoms.

The rheumatism germ, thus isolated, is described by Dr. Frissell as looking a good deal like diplococci, or streptococci. It possesses, however, a special affinity for the joints.

Dr. Frissell concludes that "while exposure to wet and damp may bring on rheumatism, the real cause is a specific germ."

Rheumatism is classed as an infectious disease, which occurs in epidemic form. Pleurisy and rheumatism of the heart, he told the alumni, were both probably due to the newly-discovered germ.

PART DOG AND PART BEAR

Singular Animal Resembles Each of Parents in Some Particulars.

Denver.—Half bear, half dog, a remarkable prodigy of nature, was brought to the city from Nebraska by I. Pinter. It is the only known example of the crossing of the dog and bear families.

Teddy is the name of the hybrid. His mother was a common stray dog of North Platte, Neb., a little bigger than a Scotch terrier and of the same general build and color. Father Bear has never been seen. The dam gave birth to a litter of five of the strange puppies, but four were born dead.

The creature is now eleven months old and weighs about 35 pounds, but looks much heavier. At first sight the animal gives the impression of a peculiar kind of dog, although on closer examination the bear peculiarities are more evident. The ears are long and drooping, like those of a spaniel, the tail is also that of a spaniel. The eyes are large and have the mild dog-like expression. A bear has short upstanding ears, a stub tail never more than a couple of inches long and the eyes are small and quite different in expression and the manner they are set in the head.

But the bear hump is very plain above the hindquarters. The legs are bear paws, thick as a man's arm and short, with pads that will in time make an impression similar to the human foot, and the claws are long. Teddy has never been heard to bark, but will occasionally give a modest bear's growl. In habits he is more like a bear than a dog, but is more like a dog in the canine world. He always lies down to eat.

The animal shows little intelligence and energy. He has not strength enough to walk upstairs and will refuse to go more than a mile at a time unless slow progress is made.

Beer Trust in Japan.

The Yokohama Mail reports the formation of a Japanese beer trust, the three beer companies, the Nippon, the Sapporo and the Osaka having agreed to unite and form one concern. This result is said to have been brought about largely by the advice of the minister of state for agriculture and commerce. The manufacture of beer in Japan amounted to 3,800,000 gallons in 1904, being almost double the production for 1902. However, the production of 1901, before the imposition of a tax, reached 4,800,000 gallons. The exports of beer in 1904 were valued at $375,000, while for the last ten months of 1905 the exports reached $650,000. Japan is increasing her sales of beer in Korea and China.

Safe and Sane France.

The results of the French elections far announced give the lie once more to the pessimistic forebodings of the prophets of evil. There was no building of barricades, the "orcs of disorder" were apparently absent and not accounted for, and the government will be able to reconstruct its "bloc" apparently stronger than before. France is bigger and stronger than any French party, however rabid.

Germany's Motor Output.

German firms are unable to fill all foreign orders for automobiles. Vice Consul Schlemmer of Mannheim writes that the German motor production for 1905 was $10,000,000, the export to England and France increasing 400 per cent. Twice the present possible production in Germany would not supply the demand, especially for heavy vehicles.

SHIRTS POISON SKIN

CHEAP COLORED GARMENTS A MENACE TO HEALTH.

Chicago Physicians Inveigh Against Underwear Offered for Sale by Conscienceless Dealers.

Chicago.—That the cheap shirt sales are a source of danger to the public health was brought out by a discussion between four physicians who had expected to be present at a meeting of the Chicago Medical Society. The four physicians had prepared a short paper each on the danger accruing from the use of the cheap clothing which is being disposed of at reduced prices by various second-hand and other clothiers over the city.

Foremost among the papers was that of Dr. Charles A. Motter. Dr. Motter has been investigating the coloring of the pink shirts which have been quoted at 39 to 49 cents at various clothing stores of the city for some time and in every instance, he states, he has found that the coloring of the cheap pink shirts has been poisonous and especially deleterious if worn next to the skin, as is the case with most of the laboring men and others who buy cheap shirts.

"Underwear, especially in summer time," said Dr. Motter, "is a luxury in which the poor do not indulge. The colored shirts, especially the pink ones, are a source of poison because they come next to the skin. The coloring matter, which contains a large percentage of poison, comes in contact with the skin and the poison is transferred to the blood through the pores. Many cases of blood poisoning which have been referred to other causes, many of them of a supposedly internal nature, can be traced to our 39-cent shirts."

"Pink is the most dangerous color in the cheap garments. The blues and grays are the least dangerous, although there are some ingredients of blue shirts, especially of the calico pattern, which if worn next to a sweaty skin will produce all the symptoms of blood poisoning. A red shirt if worn by a laboring man next to his skin is almost sure to cause diseases of the cuticle, if not diseases of the blood."

"If poor people could be made to understand the value of wearing at least a light suit of underwear beneath any colored shirts, no matter from whom purchased, the problem of skin diseases would be simplified, to say the least, and I believe that blood diseases would be much less frequent." The matter of bathing among the poor has little to do with the problem of cheap shirts, according to Dr. Motter. The main efforts of physicians should be directed toward interesting the poor in the value of the use of cheap white underwear which, it is claimed, is not in vogue among the purchasers of the highly colored and highly unsanitary outer

Washington, June 8.—Though no agreement has been made it is likely that the clash in the Senate on the statehood report will not come until Tuesday. Mr. Foraker himself desires that the consideration be deferred to then.

Mr. Foraker's reasons in asking that it be deferred were that two of the senators who are supporting him desire to leave the city for a few days and they have not been able to make pairs.

Whether Mr. Foraker is correct in believing that he has a majority back of him in his desire to reject the conference report no one knows. The fact that he has been willing to defer consideration until Tuesday has suggested to some that he is not quite sure of his majority. The suspicion is encouraged by the knowledge that if need be Mr. Foraker's followers are prepared to filibuster.

If the conference report should be adopted by the Senate, that, of course, would assure statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory, because the House would do likewise with much alacrity and enthusiasm. If the Senate should reject it, or if its acceptance should be prevented by a filibuster, then the House would hardly get an opportunity to express its will unless the Democrats exert that boon by means of their filibuster.

Altogether it seems that the best hope for statehood is by means of the sundry civil bill.

Needed Shoes.

This morning two negroes employed by the construction company walked into Chapman's shoe store. One had a coat hanging from his shoulder and while his side partner selected a pair of shoes to be laid away, he helped himself to a very fine pair of shoes, a special order for a customer. Mr. Chapman's suspicions were aroused and he looked in the box after the fellow walked out, only to find them missing. He went after the fellow, pulled the coat from his shoulder and found the shoes. Marshal Brents was standing near and arrested Mr. Nigger and he is now in jail.

HITCHCOCK WANTS MORE MONEY FOR COMMISSION

Washington, June 8.—Secretary Hitchcock has requested of Congress an additional appropriation of $100,000 for the use of the Five Civilized Tribes. The Indian appropriation bill carries $200,000 for the Commission, so if this additional amount is given, its work for the next fiscal year will cost $300,000. The Secretary transmits a copy of a telegram from Tamm Bixby, who says the additional appropriation is made necessary by the increased work resulting from the passage of the five tribes bill.

GOVERNOR FRANTZ ISSUES FLAG DAY PROCLAMATION

Guthrie, Ok., June 8.—Governor Frank Frantz has issued the following flag day proclamation:

"The one hundred and twenty-ninth anniversary of the American flag will occur June 14, 1907. In lieu of this fact and in accordance with the growing custom, of the general, well-nigh national, observance, I hereby call upon the people of Oklahoma to turn their minds upon this anniversary day to these great principles which have become the acknowledged sum and substance of our high civilization.

"Especially do I recommend the recollection and recounting by old and young alike, of those deeds of self-sacrifice and heroism performed by our revolutionary forbears in establishing freedom and a fit home for freedom's offspring—the free institutions now our secure possessions, the pride of the nation's advancing citizenship, the envy of the world.

"The flag of the United States means everything to us as a nation. In the shining folds of the stars and stripes the humblest citizen of the land reads the story of his priceless heritage, the oppressed of every country reads the story of its refuge, the laborer worthy of his hire reads his rights to the fruits of his toil and enjoyment of the same, the mother gloriously yielding up her soldier or sailor boy reads the message of "consolation in the thanks of the republic they died to save."

"The birthday of our flag: Long and ever may the nation observe this anniversary with fitting tribute of remembrance and the renewal of our allegiance to the cause for which it stands throughout the world."

Case Continued.

The members of the baseball nine, who were arrested the first of the week, were up before Mayor Wood Friday morning for trial. The case was continued until Monday, June 18. The point being contested is the legality of Sunday ball. The outcome of the case will be eagerly watched. There are hundreds of men who are employed during the week who have no opportunity to witness a ball game except on Sunday. These hate to be deprived of an opportunity to see their favorite game.

Notice.

The local physicians are requested to meet tonight with Drs Ligon & King. Business of importance.

OKLAHOMA WILL BE PROMINENT AT JAMESTOWN

In line with the leading states of the Union, Oklahoma, the prospective new state, will participate in the Jamestown Exposition at Norfolk, Virginia, next year. Wherever Oklahoma has made an exhibit at an exhibition it was creditable and drew favorable attention to that territory, hence it is safe to assume that the Oklahoma exhibit at the Jamestown Exposition will be worthy of that prospective state.

A choice site has been selected by Governor Frantz at the exposition grounds for the Oklahoma building and work will begin as soon as the plans have been decided upon. Gov. Frantz describes the Oklahoma site as admirable. It has a slight elevation and overlooks the historic waters of Hampton Roads. The Oklahoma building at the exposition will probably be of a colonial design and will be a permanent structure thus saving the territory from loss in its disposition after the exposition is over.

It is singularly appropriate that the territory which is still the home of the remnants of some of the great Indian tribes of the past, should participate in an international exposition on the shores of Hampton Roads, where in years gone by, the most powerful Indian tribes of the American continent lived and perished. It is also appropriate that Oklahoma, the most progressive of commonwealths, should be seen at the great exposition to commemorate the first permanent English settlement in America and the three centuries of American progress.—Oklahoman.

Forty-Two Club.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reed entertained the Forty-two Club Thursday night in a very enjoyable manner. A feature of the evening was some very fine music by Miss Case and Miss Fulton which was greatly appreciated. Besides the regular club members the following guests were entertained:

Miss Fulton, Miss Case, Misses Mildred and Pictie Timberlake and Susie Higgins. Messrs. Mautin Timberlake, Ed Harraway, Joe Garner and J. T. Conn.

RATE BILL GOES BACK TO CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

Washington, June 8.—After pummelling it for two days the Senate has sent the rate bill back to conference with two very black eyes. It is apt to be considerably changed when it is brought out again. The anti-pass amendment is likely to go out entirely, for the effort to make one exception has resulted much as does the attempt to give the tree a gentle shake that only one mulberry will fall.

When it tried during the pen-

dancy of the bill to except railroad employees from the bill the Senate got such momentum that it barely restrained itself from excepting football and baseball players. The debate of the last few days has betrayed the same remarkable divergence of opinion and it is extremely probable that the anti-pass section will be eliminated. Congress thus acknowledges itself either unwilling or unable to restrict the issuance of passes within reasonable limitations.

A Timely Suggestion

To Property Owners and Mortgagors:

Tornadoes and wind-storms have destroyed millions of dollars worth of property. In a few moments the savings of a lifetime disappear. Your property, or that held in trust by you, may at any time be similarly damaged or destroyed. How would you be affected by such a loss? Are you insured? A liberal form of contract protecting you in such an emergency can be had at low rates of premium from

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

ADA EVENING NEWS.

OFFICIAL CITY PAPER.

OTIS B. WEAVER - PUBLISHER
M. D. STEINER, - BUSINESS MANAGER

Entered as Second Class Matter March 26, 1904, at the Postoffice at Ada, Indian Territory, under the Act of Congress March 3, 1869.

Advertising rates furnished on application.

YES, Aunt Sally, the News has the contract for the city printing. Pass the pie!

THE NEWS WILL ENLARGE AND IMPROVE

The News is adding several hundred dollars worth of new equipment to its already superior plant and will within ten days, statehood or no statehood furnish its friends, the people of Ada just double the local and home printed matter than appears at present. We have always believed in a most positive way that the future of Ada was assured and that presently it would become one of the strongest little cities in the prospective new state. Such confidence was suggested when more than two years ago we began the publication of a daily paper. That confidence is proved when in the face of many difficulties and discouragements we have since continuously published a daily edition, and one of a character, we believe, satisfactory to the town and complimentary to it in the estimation of the press and people throughout the two territories.

Recently there was placed before us a carefully audited, recapitalized showing of the business of the News during the previous twelve months, which showed a loss of nearly $900. Notwithstanding this we immediately began negotiating for a standard $3500 Mergenthaler linotype. This is an indication of our abiding confidence in the dawning future of Ada. We shall not be content until the people of this town have one of the very best daily papers in the territory.

While the negotiations mentioned were in progress unfortunate by there occurred the great San Francisco fire which produced an instantaneous demand for an enormous number of these machines. The Mergenthaler monopoly, through the kindness of the tariff, controls the linotype output in this country, and the Frisco order being more important than ours the manufacture and delivery of a machine would not be promised to us earlier than late fall. The News will install a standard linotype before the end of the year.

In the meantime the fire and earthquake and a Republic in Congress and the two or three disgruntled town knockers—and we deplore the latter the most—shall not retard the advancement of the News.

Within two weeks we shall appear in new dress out and out, and enlarged and improved, and with special wire service installed. We shall continue to pay our bills and work with all our might for the upbuilding of Ada and surrounding country, and subscribe toward charity and for public benefits, commensurately with our investments in the city as much as anyone.

CHARMS THAT BRING LUCK

Superstitions of Bridge Players—Houses and Seats That Are Unlucky.

It is now obvious that the portion of society which takes its gambling seriously—it is a very large portion in deed—has become very superstitious. An instance in point is the buying of the ankh which, as now sold in Bond street in gold and jewels, is extremely popular, says the London Daily Mail.

The ankh is the sign of life, and consequently of good luck, striving against bad; a symbol of Egyptian origin composed of a headless cross attached to a shrup circle.

Gambling has always gone hand in hand with belief in the efficacy of charms, but the fair votaries of bridge go much further and there are end less little ceremonies which are supposed to militate for or against their chance of winning.

A charming lady who might, without undue conceit, have styled herself "one who knows," quotes an instance. "Whenever you cut for a fresh deal or after a rubber," she said, "the one who cuts lowest has, as you know, the choice of cards and seats, and they invariably turn the winning people out of their seats and choose the winning pack." Sometimes they elect to sit against the hinges of the table, because that is the lucky side.

As for the charms which are supposed to bring luck, their name is legion, the most favored are little dwarfs, lucky sixpences and the New Zealand greenstone. It must not be supposed that these superstitions are confined to the ladies. Two well known card players at White's are extremely proud of possessing some pieces of a hangman's rope, and from the possession of these trophies they date their good luck.

Certain houses are considered lucky to play in, though of course a house which is lucky for one player may be unlucky for the other. Particular clubs also are much in favor among card players.

Extravagance for the Dead.
Burial customs were once modest with our people. But complicated and costly living appears to have made simple dying impossible, remarks the New York Mail. We run to seek orientation in the surroundings and trappings of mortality. It is necessary to obtain this, to purchase that, it is the only good form, nothing else will do. It is the consideration of the living that we think about, not the simple respect due the dead. We forget that the costlier the earthly memoria we erect the shallower may be the record that we cut upon the tablets of our hearts.

GERMAN GIRLS' SCHOOLING

No Colleges for Them in Their Own Country, But They Have a "Pension."

The German girl leaves school at about 15 years of age, by which time she has learned to sew, mend, and supposedly to speak English and French.

She has not learned higher mathematics, says Modern Women, but she has learned the small things which fit a girl for a housewife or companion, and that in Germany, is woman's only sphere.

However much we American girls may enjoy our colleges we dare not pit the German girls, for they have some thing which takes their place and of which we can have no conception until we reside in Germany a few months.

Did you ever hear of a pension? It is one of the most enjoyable things which exists. Certain influential ladies, mostly widows or maiden aunts, make known that they are willing to take a limited number of young ladies into their family.

We went to Hanover, two of us girls with a horror and dread of a boarding school as we heard a pension described. We found ourselves in a family of eight girls, all from the very best class of Germans and all placed under Frau von H—'s care for a year or more.

None of the girls had any special object in life, a few wanted to learn how to keep house a few indulged in an hour's music lesson per week but most of them came as is the German custom for the sake of becoming polished and being escorted to concerts, theater, balls, receptions, student Kneipen etc., opportunities not afforded in smaller cities and even not in many cities that are larger than Hanover.

Consequently our chaperon accepted invitations for her girls parties were given and the great intimate family spent a year full of pleasure.

HORSE AND HORSELESS.

The Animal and the Auto Each Do the Other an Occasional Good Turn

A farmer in Cadiz Ind., recently jacked up his automobile to serve in lieu of a broken engine in the shelling of corn and cutting of fodder for his live stock and horses. The latter took of their share of the feed without showing any hard feeling toward their deadly rival the auto.

One man who has been touring the country says that the horses have accepted the automobile more gracefully than the farmers have.

He tells the story of an automobileist who met an elderly couple driving a skittish horse which decidedly objected to passing the unknown vehicle. The driver of the car stopped to offer his aid, but the man declined it with the remark

"If you'll lead my old woman by, I guess the hoss and I can make it all right."

Another horse and horses yarn comes from a man in Oregon. He says:

"When I bought my car I marveled that the company could sell it for $1,550. Now I marvel that they could sell it at any price. Marveling is the cheapest part of the proposition. I find

"My particular marvel out in my barn reminds me of the man who built so much stone fence in one day that it took him two days to walk back to where he began. My car will take me—sometimes—so far from home in two hours that it takes the rest of the day for me to drive home with a providentially hired horse.

FACTS ABOUT SAFETY PIN.

Obliging Clerk Imparts Interesting Information Concerning the Article.

"One dozen safety pins. Twelve cents. Thank you, madam," said the clerk. "Your change will be here in one moment."

She was very pretty. He was young. A conversation sprang up.

There is a strange story connected with the safety pin," the clerk said.

An Englishman invented this pin some 30 or 40 years ago. For this admirable invention he was highly honored. Fêtes and appliances were showered upon him. If I am not mistaken, the man was even knighted.

"And about three years ago, in excavating in Pompeii, they came upon what do you think? A perfect safety pin. Hundreds of perfect bronze safety pins. The Englishman's invention wasn't new at all. It was 2,000 years old.

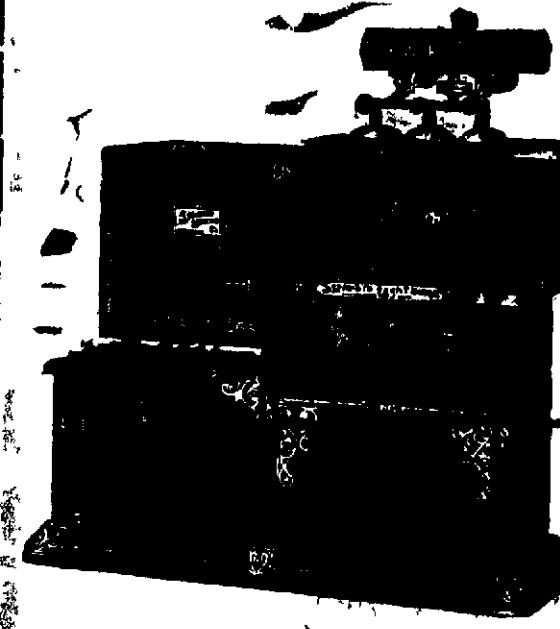

"The man had been tested and honored all his life, he had even been knighted, for an invention that he didn't invent."

MIKADO'S SELF DENIAL.

Refused Heat in Palace While His Soldiers Were Freezing in the Field.

In the bitter cold of last winter—1904-1905—the mikado not content with the fullest official reports, sent his grand master to look into the conditions at the front, to ascertain by visiting every camp and outpost, how the soldiers were faring. When Count Hijiaka returned with his harrowing tale of frightful suffering caused by the cold, the emperor was broken-hearted, says World's Work. Nothing more could be done—the Manchurian winter must drag its icy season through—but the emperor would not take his ease while his men were freezing, and the order to discontinue all heating of the palace till the war should be over showed that his sympathy was with them day by day.

"Marshal."

The small boys of town are in a fair way to get themselves into serious trouble. They have become enthused with a game they call "marshal." There are a number who play fugitives and another party of marshals. The chase is a wild one and leads through yards, gardens, barns and the more devious the route the finer the game. It's all right for boys to have their fun but they must keep out of private property. Many persons are complaining of damage done to gardens and of barn doors and gates being left open. If the boys don't confine their play to the streets and alleys the really sure marshal is going to join in the chase.

Told of Capt. Hobson.

The nomination of Captain Richmond P. Hobson for Congress in the Sixth District of Alabama, recalls a story. John Hollis Bankhead, whom Hobson defeated for the nomination, is a Confederate veteran and has represented the district for twenty years. Several years ago there was a bill before the naval committee to transfer Hobson to the retired list of the navy "as for disability incurred in the line of duty." Hobson charged that Bankhead prevented a favorable report of this bill, and, it is said determined to oppose him in his district. Upon the failure of the bill, Hobson resigned from the navy. Bankhead is 64 and Hobson 36, and both are Alabamians.

WOLVES NEAR CITY

INDIANA FARMERS CAPTURE FARMYARD MARAUDERS.

Ferocious Beasts Slay Sheep and Calves Within an Hour's Ride of Great Metropolis.

Chicago.—Five wolves captured and some still free within rifle shot of where stupendous manufacturing interests are being rapidly developed serve to emphasize the theory that, after all, civilization is, as yet, only a step removed from savagery. In the Calumet district of Indiana, scarcely more than an hour's ride from Chicago, the natives are boasting of recent wolf exploits and hoping for more to come.

For some time tracks that old timers declared were those of wolves had been seen. Scourers pronounced it impossible, but more tracks were seen. Strange noises were heard at night; chickens disappeared; even a sheep or two and small calves were killed and partly devoured.

Finally George Hamper, in charge of a clubhouse and the surrounding farm, killed a full grown wolf and, skinning it carefully, had the skin stuffed and mounted. Hunters, of course, envied Hamper's good fortune. However, this was not the only opportunity afforded. The depredations continued.

Wolves were often seen in the gray of early morning seizing chickens and devouring such carcasses of animals as had not been buried.

No one secured another successful shot and apparently the wolf pack was thriving and waxing larger and bolder. Several farmers along the river set traps, only to find them empty morning after morning.

Hamper determined upon trying his fortunes as a trapper. He hauled refuse, throwing it into considerable piles in such position as to form a hollow square, in the center of which was a dead horse. Between each two piles he set a strong trap so that to get at the meat the wolves must pass over the traps or leap over the piles.

Everything ready, Hamper and his men were anxious for the morning. It came, but no wolf was cowering in a trap. The next day, however, as they were husking corn one of the men declared that he saw something moving among the refuse piles.

It proved to be a full grown wolf, and a male. How to secure him alive without encountering danger puzzled them a little; but one of the men cut a forked stick and held it upon his neck with sufficient force to pin him to the ground and to prevent him turning his head to bite.

Next a strap was slipped under his body and moved forward until it could be buckled about his neck. A chain fastened to the strap provided a means by which he could be tied.

Throwing blankets over the animal, the men took the wolf to a building at the club where he was chained very much like one of his cousins, the watch dogs.

Since then three more wolves have succumbed to the prowess of Hamper, who is still awaiting a material reward in the form of bounty offered for wolf scalps.

BOY MAKES RICH DISCOVERY

Rich Store of Relics Unearthed by Youngster in Ancient Athens.

Athens.—A boy's find of some little leaden figures at Lemnacum, near Sparta, has led to the discovery of a rich store of relics, which were the offerings to the goddess Artemis Orthia, whose temple stood on the site in the days of ancient Greece.

Excavations, immediately commenced under the direction of Guy Dickins, of Oxford, revealed thousands of little objects, beautifully carved or cast in terra cotta, ivory, lead, bronze, gold and silver. There are terra cotta goddesses, ivory warriors, gold and silver ornaments, pottery and masks of quaint design, besides quantities of leaden images representing figures, animals, armor and fabulous monsters.

For three days the excavations produced these objects, and an inscription was brought to light on the fourth. It was a dedication to the Goddess Artemis Orthia by the victors in an athletic contest.

The prospects of the excavations in and around Lemnacum are so good that the government is adding two new rooms to the Sparta museum.

Daughter of Countess a Genius. A precocious little girl of Brussels, 15 years old and an inventor, has designed and patented a remarkable device, consisting of a turntable for reversing the direction of motor cars and wagons. The apparatus is fixed on the chassis, which has a driving wheel at each end and is worked by an electric motor. The invention was the outcome of watching the difficulty of maneuvering heavy motor wagons in the Antwerp streets. The patent for the invention has been secured in the name of Esther de Susi, daughter of Countess de Susi.

Library on an Island. Prof. Hottlinger, an eminent authority on everything connected with the duties of a librarian, has purchased for $675 three small Danish islands in the little belt known as the Boethem islands. He means to build a house on the largest of them and there, secluded from the world, arrange his collection of 50,000 books.

FORTUNE FROM WRECK.

Australian Legislator Makes Luck Purchase of Sunken Treasure Ship.

Melbourne.—A million dollars made from a wreck purchased for $750 is the romantic piece of luck that has befallen Hon. J. G. Alkman, member of the legislative council of Victoria.

Two years ago on a June night the magnificent P. & O. steamship Australia, which cost nearly $3,000,000 to build, went ashore at the entrance to Port Phillip bay, a short distance from Melbourne. The vessel was subsequently put up at auction and knocked down to Mr. Alkman for $1,000. Afterward the auctioneer offered the cargo, which was purchased by Mr. Alkman for $750.

Soon divers went to work and the cargo was rescued. Dry goods, hardware and electro-plated ware were recovered in good condition. A valuable cargo of Muntz metal was also found, realizing over $3,700. Nine hundred tons of bar iron, bar steel, tool steel and shear steel were recovered from the wreck and sold for an average of $50 a ton. Seven hundred and forty tons of galvanized iron and 40 tons of steel were recovered during the first operations. After six months' operations it was decided to abandon the work, when an engineer suggested that the copper pipes, the brass fittings and other metal of the ship itself would be worth salvaging.

Operations were renewed and 219 tons of brass, copper and gun metal were saved, and 1,950 tons of scrap cast were obtained from the engine and other castings aboard. Five tandem and four tangy engines and a large quantity of pig iron were also got from the wreck. The four propeller blades, which consisted of phosphor or manganese bronze, and which weighed 14 tons, realized $5,000 as old metal.

Half the hull of the Australia still remains above water and quantities of brass, copper and gun metal have still to be recovered. It is estimated that Mr. Alkman's profits from the wreck are over a million dollars. Why the underwriters never removed the valuable cargo or failed to realize its value is a mystery.

TO LONGFELLOW'S SISTER.

Memorial Window Dedicated in Old Church to Which She Belonged.

Boston.—Honoring the exemplary life and works of Mrs. Mary Longfellow Greenleaf, sister of the poet Longfellow, 300 fair representatives of Cambridge aristocracy assembled at St. James' church recently to witness the unveiling of a magnificent window to her memory.

Facing the memorial chancel presented by Mrs. Greenleaf, the memorial window, which is in the west wall of the south transept, occupies a singularly appropriate position. It was designed by Harry Eldredge Goodhue, a former member of the parish.

It is 32 inches wide by 12 feet high and is divided into four panels. In the middle of the window is a panel which contains a life-size figure representing the Prophetess Anna bearing a lighted taper.

Standing out in bold relief is the following, which tells the history of the window itself:

"In loving memory of Mary Longfellow Greenleaf, widow of James Greenleaf, the Anna of this temple, 1818-1902. For nearly 30 years a communicant of this parish, its oldest member, and always its bountiful benefactor, her largest gift to it was herself. The sister of poets, her whole life was one long poem."

EXILED KING AND QUEEN.

Madagascar's Monarch Wants New Husband and Dahomey's Ruler a House.

Paris.—The exiled queen of Madagascar, Ranavalona, has just asked the permission of the minister of the colonies to contract a second marriage. The new aspirant to her hand is a wine grower of Orano, in Algiers. It is probable that the request of the former queen will be granted.

Benzanhan, the former king of Dahomey, has just arrived at Blida, in Algiers, and is temporarily installed, with his suite, in the Hotel d'Orient, where he will remain until the house set aside for his use, which is the property of M. Bouvier, a retired French officer, who rents it to the French government, has been suitably furnished, according to the dusky king's tastes.

With the king are now installed at Blida his four wives, his three daughters and one son, named Ouaniou, who will be granted by the French government a purse to enable him to complete his course of studies at the high school in Algiers. Ouaniou is already half-civilized and speaks French fluently, acting as his father's interpreter.

Bird's Nest in Drawing Room.

Mrs. Armistead, Trefnant, Glen, Garth, Anglesey (Eng.), says a robin is sitting on its nest of eggs in her drawing room. "The bird," she adds, "comes and goes through the window, which is left open on purpose, and although the members of the family are constantly in the room, together with a Persian cat and a fox terrier, the bird takes no heed of either, and the cat never interferes with the bird. The nest is built on the edge of a bookcase, which is in a recess at the far end of the room."

TROUBLE WITH ZULUS

BLACKS OF NATAL KEEP LAND IN UNREST.

Natives Are Considered Boys Until They Kill in Battle, Hence the Frequent Warlike Outbreaks.

London.—The native uprising in Natal is beginning to assume such proportions that it is causing serious anxiety and South Africans generally are convinced that there is grave trouble to be faced with the natives sooner or later. Whether it will come as a result of the present rising in Natal depends probably upon the success of the military measures which the Natal government is now taking. The rebel chief, Bambata, with a force variously estimated at from 3,000 to 5,000, commands the main body of the rebels, but the other bodies are probably not large and seem to be scattered widely in mobile companies in the bush.

One night lately Mr. Stainbank, the English magistrate in the Mahlabatini district of Zululand, was shot dead while using the field telephone to Eshowe. His escort of three troopers failed to capture the murderers. The scene of the murder is close to the battlefield of Ulundi, where the last Zulu war ended. It is not thought that the murderers belong to Bambata's force, who are not likely to be so far from their center at Nandhla, and it is feared it marks the development of a fresh center of rebellion.

Col. Mackenzie, who is in supreme military command in Natal, with a column including a Dutch contingent which volunteered from the Transvaal and Royston's Irregular Horse, left Dundee for some destination in Zululand which up to the present has not been revealed.

The gravity of the situation, unless the expedition against the natives is speedily successful, cannot be exaggerated, according to South Africans.

The reason for the sudden violent native outbreak is disputed. Some declare that long seething discontent was brought to a head by the collection of the hut tax which is now proceeding, but the tax, which has long been paid, seems for the most part to be coming in quietly. Others believe that the present generation, deprived by long peace of the opportunity of "blooding their assegais," have gone on the warpath in order to do so and thus become "men" in the Zulu sense of the word and avoid the ignominy of remaining "boys."

SPURIOUS COINS IN GRAVE

Unaccountable Presence of Counterfeits in Recently Opened Sepulchre.

St. Louis—Counterfeit coins bearing the date of 1899 and 1897 found in the grave of a man who died 15 years ago furnish a puzzle for the secret service agents at St. Louis. The coins were unearthed near Arden, Douglas county, Mo., recently, when the body of John Keenan was disinterred by relatives for removal to California.

Lee T. Philpot, secret service agent, returned from that locality with $64 of the spurious coins, which he recovered from B. H. Quick, a farmer, to whom they were turned over.

Philpot was unable to get any clue as to where the money came from, and there were no traces of any bad money having been in circulation there recently. The "plant" is supposed to be an old one, made by some counterfeiter, who picked out a grave as the place least likely to be discovered in case of a search.

The coins are badly rusted, but some of them are good imitations. The collection includes 18 dollars, 85 half dollars and 16 quarters. Keenan and his son, Rudolph Keenan, lived in an isolated spot in the Douglas county hills. Both died about the same time.

Philpot searched an old cabin where they lived for counterfeiting tools, but found none.

DANGER IN CLOTHES BRUSH

English Medical Authority Dilates Upon Menace to the Health.

London.—The current number of the Lancet devotes an article pointing out the danger of the clothes brush. It declares that the brushing of clothes in living rooms is a danger to health, as the bacteriology of dust distinctly indicates. After dilating upon the dangers of micro-organisms and pathogenic entities contained in the dust in our garments, the Lancet admits that clothes must be brushed, but in a household conducted on hygienic lines a special room should be relegated to the work. Even this, however, is insufficient for "brushing clothes is a clumsy and insanitary procedure, which might be superseded advantageously by some effectual and less offensive method. The use of some kind of vacuum brush would, sanitarily speaking, be ideal."

Disease Affects Reformers.

The specialists in diseases of the human mind have given the name "paranoia" to that form of insanity in which the victim labors under a delusion involving an exaggerated and irrational conception of his own importance, wisdom, wealth and accomplishments. The political doctors and students of public questions have discovered that a similar disease attacks a certain class of reformers and has often been the cause of the failure of reform movements.

RHEUMATISM GERM FOUND

Bacillus Said to Be Cause of the Disease Discovered by New York Doctor.

New York.—After 18 years of unavailing search by scientists all over the world, the germ that causes rheumatic fever or acute articular rheumatism has been discovered as the result of experiments in the Presbyterian Hospital laboratory of this city by Dr. Lewis Fox Frissell, attending physician to the Seton hospital. The discoverer declares rheumatism is infectious.

Dr. Frissell describes to the alumni of the Presbyterian hospital his experiments. He first made an effort to isolate an organism from the fluid drawn from the joints of a rheumatic patient. This was injected into the veins of rabbits without result. Next cultures were taken from the tonsils of persons suffering from both tonsilitis and articular rheumatism. Failure again.

Finally, the experimenter selected an alcoholic woman, who was found in a hospital ward suffering from articular rheumatism of 11 years' standing. A culture was taken from her tonsils. Germs were found, linked together in chains. A rabbit into which the germs were injected became lame as with rheumatism. The animal was killed and the germs taken from it were injected into ten other rabbits. All of these after a time developed the rheumatic symptoms.

The rheumatism germ, thus isolated, is described by Dr. Frissell as looking like a diplococcus, or streptococcus. It possesses, however, a special affinity for the joints.

Dr. Frissell concludes that "while exposure to wet and damp may bring on rheumatism, the real cause is a specific germ."

Rheumatism he classes as an infectious disease, which occurs in epidemic form. Pleurisy and rheumatism of the heart, he told the alumni, were both probably due to the newly-discovered germ.

PART DOG AND PART BEAR

Singular Animal Resembles Each of Parents in Some Particulars.

Denver.—Half bear, half dog, a remarkable prodigy of nature, was brought to the city from Nebraska by I. Pinter. It is the only known example of the crossing of the dog and bear families.

Teddy is the name of the hybrid. His mother was a common stray dog of North Platte, Neb., a little bigger than a Scotch terrier and of the same general build and color. Father Bear has never been seen. The dam gave birth to a litter of five of the strange puppies, but four were born dead.

The creature is now eleven months old and weighs about 33 pounds, but looks much heavier. At first sight the animal gives the impression of a peculiar kind of dog, although on closer examination the bear peculiarities are more evident. The ears are long and drooping, like those of a spaniel, the tail is also that of a spaniel. The eyes are large and have the mild dog-like expression. A bear has short upstanding ears, a stub tail never more than a couple of inches long and the eyes are small and quite different in expression and the manner they are set in the head.

But the bear hump is very plain above the hindquarters. The legs are bear paws, thick as a man's arm and short, with pads that will in time make an impression similar to the human foot, and the claws are long. Teddy has never been heard to bark, but will occasionally give a modest bear's growl. In habits he is more side brain than upright as is the fashion in the canine world. He always lies down to eat.

The animal shows little intelligence and energy. He has not strength enough to walk upstairs and will refuse to go more than a mile at a time unless slow progress is made.

Bear Trust in Japan.

The Yokohama Mail reports the formation of a Japanese bear trust, the three bear companies, the Nippon, the Sapporo and the Osaki having agreed to unite and form one concern. This result is said to have been brought about largely by the advice of the minister of state for agriculture and commerce. The manufacture of bear in Japan amounted to 3,800,000 gallons in 1904, being almost double the production for 1903. However, the production of 1903, before the imposition of a tax, reached 4,800,000 gallons. The exports of bear in 1904 were valued at $75,000, while for the last ten months of 1905 the exports reached $650,000. Japan is increasing her sales of bear in Korea and China.

Safe and Sane France.

The results of the French elections thus far announced give the lie once more to the pessimistic forebodings of the prophets of evil. There was no building of barricades, the "forces of disorder" were apparently absent and not accounted for, and the government will be able to reconstruct its "block" apparently stronger than before. France is bigger and stronger than any French party, however rabid.

Germany's Motor Output.

German firms are unable to fill all foreign orders for automobiles. Vice Consul Schlemmer of Mannheim writes that the German motor production for 1905 was $10,000,000, the export to England and France increasing 400 percent. Twice the present possible production in Germany would not supply the demand, especially for heavy vehicles.

Siberian Train Service.

Six trains are now running daily either way on the Siberian railway, says the London Times, four being military trains carrying Russian troops returning from the far east. Of these, 400,000 had already left on January 14. The evacuation of Manchuria by Russian troops is expected to be completed early in June.

CHEAP COLORED GARMENTS A MENACE TO HEALTH.

Chicago Physicians Inveigh Against Underwear Offered for Sale by Conscienceless Dealers.

Chicago.—That the cheap shirt sales are a source of danger to the public health was brought out by a discussion between four physicians who had expected to be present at a meeting of the Chicago Medical Society. The four physicians had prepared a short paper each on the danger accruing from the use of the cheap clothing which is being disposed of at reduced prices by various second-hand and other clothiers over the city.

Finally, the experimenter selected an alcoholic woman, who was found in a hospital ward suffering from articular rheumatism of 11 years' standing. A culture was taken from her tonsils. Germs were found, linked together in chains. A rabbit into which the germs were injected became lame as with rheumatism. The animal was killed and the germs taken from it were injected into ten other rabbits. All of these after a time developed the rheumatic symptoms.

CLASH OVER STATEHOOD POSTPONED ONCE MORE

Washington, June 8.—Though no agreement has been made it is likely that the clash in the Senate on the statehood report will not come until Tuesday. Mr. Foraker himself desires that the consideration be deferred to then.

Mr. Foraker's reasons in asking that it be deferred were that two of the senators who are supporting him desire to leave the city for a few days and they have not been able to make pairs.

Whether Mr. Foraker is correct in believing that he has a majority back of him in his desire to reject the conference report no one knows. The fact that he has been willing to defer consideration until Tuesday has suggested to some that he is not quite sure of his majority. The suspicion is encouraged by the knowledge that if need be Mr. Foraker's followers are prepared to filibuster.

If the conference report should be adopted by the Senate, that, of course, would assure statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory, because the House would do likewise with much alacrity and enthusiasm. If the Senate should reject it, or if its acceptance should be prevented by a filibuster, then the House would hardly get an opportunity to express its will unless the Democrats exert that boon by means of their filibuster.

Altogether it seems that the best hope for statehood is by means of the sundry civil bill.

Needed Shoes.

This morning two negroes employed by the construction company walked into Chapman's shoe store. One had a coat hanging from his shoulder and while his side partner selected a pair of shoes to be laid away, he helped himself to a very fine pair of shoes, a special order for a customer. Mr. Chapman's suspicions were aroused and he looked in the box after the fellow walked out, only to find them missing. He went after the fellow, pulled the coat from his shoulder and found the shoes. Marshal Brents was standing near and arrested Mr. Nigger and he is now in jail.

HITCHCOCK WANTS MORE MONEY FOR COMMISSION

Washington, June 8.—Secretary Hitchcock has requested of Congress an additional appropriation of $100,000 for the use of the Five Civilized Tribes. The Indian appropriation bill carries $200,000 for the Commission, so if this additional amount is given, its work for the next fiscal year will cost $300,000. The Secretary transmits a copy of a telegram from Tama Bixby, who says the additional appropriation is made necessary by the increased work resulting from the passage of the five tribes bill.

GOVERNOR FRANTZ ISSUES FLAG DAY PROCLAMATION

Guthrie, Ok., June 8.—Governor Frank Frantz has issued the following flag day proclamation:

"The one hundred and twenty-ninth anniversary of the American flag will occur June 14, 1907. In view of this fact and in accordance with the growing custom, of the general, well-nigh national, observance, I hereby call upon the people of Oklahoma to turn their minds upon this anniversary day to these great principles which have become the acknowledged sum and substance of our high civilization.

"Especially do I recommend the recollection and recounting by old and young alike, of those deeds of self-sacrifice and heroism performed by our revolutionary forbears in establishing freedom and a fit home for freedom's offspring—the free institutions now our secure possessions, the pride of the nation's advancing citizenship, the envy of the world.

"The flag of the United States means everything to us as a nation. In the shining folds of the stars and stripes the humblest citizen of the land reads the story of his priceless heritage, the oppressed of every country reads the story of its refuge, the laborer worthy of his hire reads his rights to the fruits of his toil and enjoyment of the same, the mother gloriously yielding up her soldier or sailor boy reads the message of "consolation in the thanks of the republic they died to save."

"The birthday of our flag: Long and ever may the nation observe this anniversary with fitting tribute of remembrance and the renewal of our allegiance to the cause for which it stands throughout the world."

Case Continued.

The members of the baseball nine, who were arrested the first of the week, were up before Mayor Wood Friday morning for trial. The case was continued until Monday, June 18. The point being contested is the legality of Sunday ball. The outcome of the case will be eagerly watched. There are hundreds of men who are employed during the week who have no opportunity to witness a ball game except on Sunday. These hate to be deprived of an opportunity to see their favorite game.

OKLAHOMA WILL BE PROMINENT AT JAMESTOWN

In line with the leading states of the Union, Oklahoma, the prospective new state, will participate in the Jamestown Exposition at Norfolk, Virginia, next year. Wherever Oklahoma has made an exhibit at an exhibition it was creditable and drew favorable attention to that territory, hence it is safe to assume that the Oklahoma exhibit at the Jamestown Exposition will be worthy of that prospective state.

A choice site has been selected by Governor Frantz at the exposition grounds for the Oklahoma building and work will begin as soon as the plans have been decided upon. Gov. Frantz desires the Oklahoma site as administrative. It has a slight elevation and overlooks the historic waters of Hampton Roads. The Oklahoma building at the exposition will probably be of a colonial design and will be a permanent structure thus saving the territory from loss in its disposition after the position is over.

It is singularly appropriate that the territory which is still the home of the remnants of some of the great Indian tribes of the past, should participate in an international exposition on the shores of Hampton Roads, where in years gone by, the most powerful Indian tribes of the American continent lived and perished. It is also appropriate that Oklahoma, the most progressive of commonwealths, should be seen at the great exposition to commemorate the first permanent English settlement in America and the three centuries of American progress.—Oklahoman.

Forty-Two Club.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reed entertained the Forty-two Club Thursday night in a very enjoyable manner. A feature of the evening was some very fine music by Miss Case and Miss Fulton which was greatly appreciated. Besides the regular club members the following guests were entertained:

Miss Fulton, Miss Case, Misses Mildred and Pinkie Timberlake and Susie Higgins. Messrs. Mautin Timberlake, Ed Harraway, Joe Garner and J. T. Conn.

RATE BILL GOES BACK TO CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

Washington, June 8.—After pummeling it for two days the Senate has sent the rate bill back to conference with two very black eyes. It is apt to be considerably changed when it is brought out again. The anti-pass amendment is likely to go out entirely, for the effort to make one exception has resulted much as does the attempt to give the tree a gentle shake that only one mulberry will fall.

When it tried during the pendancy of the bill to except railroad employees from the bill the Senate got such momentum that it barely restrained itself from excepting football and baseball players. The debate of the last few days has betrayed the same remarkable divergence of opinion and it is extremely probable that the anti-pass section will be eliminated. Congress thus acknowledges itself either unwilling or unable to restrict the issuance of passes within reasonable limitations.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts goes out of existence in moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

YES, Aunt Sally, the News has the contract for the city printing.
Pass the pie!

THE NEWS WILL ENLARGE AND IMPROVE

The News is adding several hundred dollars worth of new equipment to its already superior plant and will within ten days, statehood or no statehood furnish its friends, the people of Ada just double the local and home printed matter than appears at present. We have always believed in a most positive way that the future of Ada was assured and that presently it would become one of the strongest little cities in the prospective new state. Such confidence was suggested when more than two years ago we began the publication of a daily paper. That confidence is proved when in the face of many difficulties and discouragements we have since continuously published a daily edition, and one of a character, we believe, satisfactory to the town and complimentary to it in the estimation of the press and people throughout the two territories.

Recently there was placed before us a carefully audited, recapitulated showing of the business of the News during the previous twelve months, which showed a loss of nearly $800. Notwithstanding this we immediately began negotiating for a standard $3500 Mergenthaler Linotype. This is an indication of our abiding confidence in the flattering future of Ada. We shall not be content until the people of this town have one of the very best daily papers in the territory.

While the negotiations mentioned were in progress unfortunately there occurred the great San Francisco fire which produced an instantaneous demand for an enormous number of those machines. The Mergenthaler monopoly, through the kindness of the tariff, controls the Linotype output in this country, and the Frisco order being more important than ours the manufacture and delivery of a machine would not be promised to us earlier than late fall. The News will install a standard Linotype before the end of the year.

In the meantime the fire and earthquake and a Republican convention and the two or three disgruntled town knockers—and we deplore the latter the most—shall not retard the advancement of the News.

Within two weeks we shall appear in new dress out and out, and enlarged and improved, and with special wire service installed. We shall continue to pay our bills and work with all our might for the upbuilding of Ada and surrounding country, and subscribe toward charity and for public benefits, commensurately with our investments in the city as much as anyone.

CHARMS THAT BRING LUCK

Superstitions of Bridge Players—Houses and Seats That Are Unlucky.

It is now obvious that the portion of society which takes its gambling seriously—it is a very large portion indeed—has become very superstitious. An instance to point is the buying of the ankh which, as now sold in Bond street in gold and jewels, is extremely popular, says the London Daily Mail.

The ankh is the sign of life, and consequently of good luck, striving against bad; a symbol of Egyptian origin composed of a headless cross attached to a stirrup circle.

Gambling has always gone hand in hand with belief in the efficacy of charms, but the fair votaries of bridge go much further and there are endless little ceremonies which are supposed to militate for or against their chance of winning.

A charming lady who might, without undue conceit, have styled herself "one who knows," quotes an instance.

"Whenever you cut for a fresh deal or after a rubber," she said, "the one who cuts lowest has, as you know, the choice of cards and seats, and they invariably turn the winning people out of their seats and choose the winning pack." Sometimes they elect to sit against the hinges of the table, because that is the lucky side.

As for the charms which are supposed to bring luck, their name is legion; the most favored are little dwarfs, lucky sixpences and the New Zealand greenstone.

It must not be supposed that these superstitions are confined to the ladies. Two well known card players at White's are extremely proud of possessing some pieces of a hangman's rope, and from the possession of these trophies they date their good luck.

Certain houses are considered lucky to play in, though a course a house which is lucky for one player may be unlucky for the other. Particular clubs also are much in favor among card players.

Extravagance for the Dead.

Burial customs were once modest with our people. But complicated and costly living appears to have made simple dying impossible, remarks the New York Mail. We run to weak ostentation in the surroundings and trappings of mortality. It is necessary to obtain this, to purchase that. It is the only good form, nothing else will do. It is the consideration of the living that we think about, not the simple respect due the dead. We forget that the costlier the earthly memorial we erect the shallower may be the record that we cut upon the tablets of our hearts.

A farmer in Cadiz Ind., recently jacked up his automobile to serve in lieu of a broken engine in the shelling of corn and cutting of fodder for his live stock and horses. The latter partook of their share of the feed without showing any hard feeling toward their deadly rival, the auto.

One man who has been touring the country says that the horses have accepted the automobile more gracefully than the farmers have.

He tells the story of an automobile that met an elderly couple driving a skittish horse which decidedly objected to passing the unknown vehicle.

The driver of the car stopped to offer his aid, but the man declined it with the remark,

"If you'll lead my old woman by, I guess the hoss and I can make it all right."

Another horse and horses yarn comes from a man in Oregon. He says:

"When I bought my car I marveled that the company could sell it for $1,550. Now I marvel that they could sell it at any price. Marveling is the cheapest part of the proposition, I find."

"My particular marvel out in my barn reminds me of the man who built so much stone fence in one day that it took him two days to walk back to where he began. My car will take me sometimes—so far from home in two hours that it takes the rest of the day for me to drive home with a providentially hired horse."

FACTS ABOUT SAFETY PIN.

Obliging Clerk Imparts Interesting

Information Concerning

the Article.

"One dozen safety pins. Twelve cents. Thank you, madam," said the clerk.

"Your change will be here in one moment."

She was very pretty. He was young. A conversation sprang up.

"There is a strange story connected with the safety pin," the clerk said.

An Englishman invented this pin some 30 or 40 years ago. For this admirable invention he was highly honored.

Fetes and applause were showered upon him. If I am not mistaken, the man was even knighted.

"And about three years ago, in excavating in Pompeii, they came upon—what do you think? A perfect safety pin. Hundreds of perfect bronze safety pins. The Englishman's invention wasn't new at all. It was 2,000 years old."

"The man had been feted and honored all his life, he had even been knighted, for an invention that he didn't invent."

MIKADO'S SELF DENIAL.

Refused Heat in Palace While His

Soldiers Were Freezing in the Field.

In the bitter cold of last winter—1904-1905—the mikado not content with the fullest official reports, sent his grand master to look into the conditions at the front to ascertain by visiting every camp and outpost, how the soldiers were faring. When Count Hikata returned with his harrowing tale of frightful suffering caused by the cold, the emperor was broken-hearted, says World's Work. Nothing more could be done—the Manchurian winter must drag its icy season through—but the emperor would not take his ease while his men were freezing, and the order to discontinue all heating of the palace till the war should be over showed that his sympathy was with them day by day.

GERMAN GIRLS' SCHOOLING

No Colleges for Them in Their Own Country, But They Have a "Pension."

The German girl leaves school at about 15 years of age, by which time she has learned to sew, mend, and supposedly to speak English and French.

She has not learned higher mathematics, says Modern Women, but she has learned the small things which fit a girl for a housewife or companion, and that in Germany, is woman's only sphere.

However much we American girls may enjoy our colleges we dare not pit the German girls, for they have something which takes their place and of which we can have no conception until we reside in Germany a few months.

Did you ever hear of a pension? It is one of the most enjoyable things which exists. Certain influential ladies, mostly widows or maiden aunts, make known that they are willing to take a limited number of young ladies into their family.

We went to Hanover, two of us girls with a horror and dread of a boarding school, as we heard a pension described. We found ourselves in a family of eight girls, all from the very best class of Germans and all placed under Frau von H—'s care for a year or more.

None of the girls had any special object in life; a few wanted to learn how to keep house, a few indulged in an hour's music lesson per week, but most of them came as in the German custom for the sake of becoming polished and being escorted to concerts, theaters, balls, receptions, student Kneipen, etc. opportunities not afforded in smaller cities, and even not in many cities that are larger than Hanover.

Consequently our chaperon accepted invitations for her girls, parties were given and the great intimate family spent a year full of pleasure.

HORSE AND HORSELESS.

The Animal and the Auto Each Do the Other an Occasional Good Turn.

A farmer in Cadiz Ind., recently jacked up his automobile to serve in lieu of a broken engine in the shelling of corn and cutting of fodder for his live stock and horses. The latter partook of their share of the feed without showing any hard feeling toward their deadly rival, the auto.

One man who has been touring the country says that the horses have accepted the automobile more gracefully than the farmers have.

He tells the story of an automobile that met an elderly couple driving a skittish horse which decidedly objected to passing the unknown vehicle.

The driver of the car stopped to offer his aid, but the man declined it with the remark,

"If you'll lead my old woman by, I guess the hoss and I can make it all right."

Another horse and horses yarn comes from a man in Oregon. He says:

"When I bought my car I marveled that the company could sell it for $1,550. Now I marvel that they could sell it at any price. Marveling is the cheapest part of the proposition, I find."

"My particular marvel out in my barn reminds me of the man who built

so much stone fence in one day that it took him two days to walk back to where he began. My car will take me

sometimes—so far from home in two hours that it takes the rest of the day for me to drive home with a providentially hired horse."

FACTS ABOUT SAFETY PIN.

Obliging Clerk Imparts Interesting

Information Concerning

the Article.

"One dozen safety pins. Twelve cents. Thank you, madam," said the clerk.

"Your change will be here in one moment."

She was very pretty. He was young. A conversation sprang up.

"There is a strange story connected with the safety pin," the clerk said.

An Englishman invented this pin some 30 or 40 years ago. For this admirable invention he was highly honored.

Fetes and applause were showered upon him. If I am not mistaken, the man was even knighted.

"And about three years ago, in excavating in Pompeii, they came upon—what do you think? A perfect safety pin. Hundreds of perfect bronze safety pins. The Englishman's invention wasn't new at all. It was 2,000 years old."

"The man had been feted and honored all his life, he had even been knighted, for an invention that he didn't invent."

MIKADO'S SELF DENIAL.

Refused Heat in Palace While His

Soldiers Were Freezing in the Field.

In the bitter cold of last winter—1904-1905—the mikado not content with the fullest official reports, sent his grand master to look into the conditions at the front to ascertain by visiting every camp and outpost, how the soldiers were faring. When Count Hikata returned with his harrowing tale of frightful suffering caused by the cold, the emperor was broken-hearted, says World's Work. Nothing more could be done—the Manchurian winter must drag its icy season through—but the emperor would not take his ease while his men were freezing, and the order to discontinue all heating of the palace till the war should be over showed that his sympathy was with them day by day.

"Marshal."

The small boys of town are in a fair way to get themselves into serious trouble. They have become enthused with a game they call "marshal." There are a number who play fugitives and another party of marshals. The chase is a wild one and leads through yards, gardens, barns and the more devious the route the finer the game. It's all right for boys to have their fun but they must keep out of private property. Many persons are complaining of damage done to gardens and of barn doors and gates being left open. If the boys don't confine their play to the streets and alleys the really for sure marshal is going to join in the chase.

Told of Capt. Hobson.

The nomination of Captain Richmond P. Hobson for Congress in the Sixth District of Alabama, recalls a story. John Hollis Bankhead, whom Hobson defeated for the nomination, is a Confederate veteran and has represented the district for twenty years. Several years ago there was a bill before the naval committee to transfer Hobson to the retired list of the navy "as for disability incurred in the line of duty." Hobson charged that Bankhead prevented a favorable report of this bill, and, it is said determined to oppose him in his district. Upon the failure of the bill Hobson resigned from the navy. Bankhead is 64 and Hobson 36, and both are Alabamians — K. C. Journal.

WOLVES NEAR CITY

FORTUNE FROM WRECK.
Australian Legislator Makes Lucky Purchase of Sunken Treasure Ship.

INDIANA FARMERS CAPTURE FARMYARD MARAUDERS.

Ferocious Beasts Slay Sheep and Calves Within an Hour's Ride of Great Metropolis.

Chicago.—Five wolves captured and some still free within rifle shot of where stupendous manufacturing interests are being rapidly developed serve to emphasize the theory that, after all, civilization is, as yet, only a step removed from savagery. In the Calumet district of Indiana, scarcely more than an hour's ride from Chicago, the natives are boasting of recent wolf exploits and hoping for more to come.

For some time tracks that old timers declared were those of wolves had been seen. Scoffers pronounced it impossible, but more tracks were seen. Strange noises were heard at night; chickens disappeared; even a sheep or two and small calves were killed and partly devoured.

Finally George Hamper, in charge of a clubhouse and the surrounding farm, killed a full grown wolf and, skinning it carefully, had the skin stuffed and mounted. Hunters, of course, envied Hamper's good fortune. However, this was not the only opportunity afforded. The depredations continued.

Wolves were often seen in the gray of early morning seizing chickens and devouring such carcasses of animals as had not been buried.

No one secured another successful shot and apparently the wolf pack was thriving and waxing larger and bolder. Several farmers along the river set traps, only to find them empty morning after morning.

Hampers determined upon trying his fortunes as a trapper. He hauled refuse, throwing it into considerable piles in such position as to form a hollow square, in the center of which was a dead horse. Between each two piles he set a strong trap so that it would get at the meat the wolves must pass over the traps or leap over the piles.

Everything ready, Hamper and his men were anxious for the morning. It came, but no wolf was cowering in a trap. The next day, however, as they were husking corn one of the men declared that he saw something moving among the refuse piles.

It proved to be a full grown wolf, and a male. How to secure him alive without encountering danger puzzled them a little; but one of the men cut a forked stick and held it upon his neck with sufficient force to pin him to the ground and to prevent him turning his head to bite.

Next a strap was slipped under his body and moved forward until it could be buckled about his neck. A chain fastened to the strap provided a means by which he could be tied.

Throwing blankets over the animal, the men took the wolf to a building at the club where he was chained very much like one of his cousins, the watch dogs.

Since then three more wolves have succumbed to the prowess of Hamper, who is still awaiting a material reward in the form of bounty offered for wolf scalps.

BOY MAKES RICH DISCOVERY

Rich Store of Relics Unearthed by Youngster in Ancient Athens.

Athens.—A boy's find of some little leaden figures at Lemnæum, near Sparta, has led to the discovery of a rich store of relics, which were the offerings to the goddess Artemis Orthia, whose temple stood on the site in the days of ancient Greece.

Excavations, immediately commenced under the direction of Guy Dickins, of Oxford, revealed thousands of little objects, beautifully carved or cast in terra cotta, ivory, lead, bronze, gold and silver. There are terra cotta goddesses, ivory warriors, gold and silver ornaments, pottery and masks of quaint design, besides quantities of leaden images representing figures, animals, armor and fabulous monsters.

For three days the excavations produced these objects, and an inscription was brought to light on the fourth. It was a dedication to the Goddess Artemis Orthia by the victors in an athletic contest.

The prospects of the excavations in and around Lemnæum are so good that the government is adding two new rooms to the Sparta museum.

Daughter of Countess a Genius.

A precocious little girl of Brussels, 15 years old and an inventor, has designed and patented a remarkable device, consisting of a turntable for reversing the direction of motor cars and wagons. The apparatus is fixed on the chassis, which has a driving wheel at each end and is worked by an electric motor. The invention was the outcome of watching the difficulty of maneuvering heavy motor wagons in the Antwerp streets. The patent for the invention has been secured in the name of Esther de Susi, daughter of Comte de Susi.

Library on an Island.

Prof. Hottinger, an eminent authority on everything connected with the duties of a librarian, has purchased for $675 three small Danish islands in the little belt known as the Bosphorus islands. He means to build a house on the largest of them and there, secluded from the world, arrange his collection of 50,000 books.

TROUBLE WITH ZULUS

BLACKS OF NATAL KEEP ENGLAND IN UNREST.

Natives Are Considered Boys Until They Kill in Battle, Hence the Frequent Warlike Out-breaks.

London.—The native uprising in Natal is beginning to assume such proportions that it is causing serious anxiety and South Africans generally are convinced that there is grave trouble to be faced with the natives sooner or later. Whether it will come as a result of the present rising in Natal depends probably upon the success of the military measures which the Natal government is now taking.

The rebel chief, Bambata, with a force variously estimated at from 3,000 to 5,000, commands the main body of the rebels, but the other bodies are probably not large and seem to be scattered widely in mobile companies in the bush.

One night lately Mr. Stainbank, the English magistrate in the Mahlabatini district of Zululand, was shot dead while using the field telephone to Eshowe. His escort of three troopers failed to capture the murderers. The scene of the murder is close to the battlefield of Ulundi, where the last Zulu war ended. It is not thought that the murderers belong to Bambata's force, who are not likely to be so far from their center at Nandhla, and it is feared it marks the development of a fresh center of rebellion.

Col. Mackenzie, who is in supreme military command in Natal, with a column including a Dutch contingent which volunteered from the Transvaal and Royston's Irregular Horse, left Dundee for some destination in Zululand which up to the present has not been revealed.

The gravity of the situation, unless the expedition against the natives is speedily successful, cannot be exaggerated, according to South Africans.

The reason for the sudden violent native outbreak is disputed.

Some declare that long-seethen discontent was brought to a head by the collection of the hut tax which is now proceed ing, but the tax, which has long been paid, seems for the most part to be coming in quietly. Others believe that the present generation, deprived by long peace of the opportunity of

"blooding their assegais," have gone on the warpath in order to do so and thus become "men" in the Zulu sense of the word and avoid the ignominy of remaining "boys."

SPURIOUS COINS IN GRAVE

Unaccountable Presence of Counterfeits in Recently Opened Sepulchre.

St. Louis.—Counterfeit coins bearing the date of 1899 and 1897 found in the grave of a man who died 15 years ago furnish a puzzle for the secret service agents at St. Louis. The coins were unearthed near Arden, Douglas county, Mo., recently, when the body of John Keenan was disinterred by relatives for removal to California.

Lee T. Philpot, secret service agent, returned from that locality with $64 of the spurious coins, which he recovered from B. H. Quirk, a farmer, to whom they were turned over.

Philpot was unable to get any clue as to where the money came from, and there were no traces of any bad money having been in circulation there recently.

The "plant" is supposed to be an old one, made by some counterfeiter, who picked out a grave at the place least likely to be discovered in case of a search.

The coins are badly rusted, but some of them are good imitations. The collection includes 18 dollars, 85 half dollars and 16 quarters. Keenan and his son, Rudolph Keenan, live in an isolated spot in the Douglas county hills. Both died about the same time.

Philpot searched an old cabin where they lived for counterfeiting tools, but found none.

DANGER IN CLOTHES BRUSH

English Medical Authority Dilates Upon Menace to the Health.

London.—The current number of the Lancet devotes an article pointing out the danger of the clothes brush. It declares that the brushing of clothes in living rooms is a danger to health, as the bacteriology of dust distinctly indicates. After dilating upon the dangers of micro-organisms and pathogenic entities contained in the dust in our garments, the Lancet admits that clothes must be brushed, but in a household conducted on hygienic lines a special room should be relegated to the work.

Even this, however, is insufficient for "brushing clothes is a clumsy and insanitary procedure, which might be superseded advantageously by some effectual and less offensive method. The use of some kind of vacuum brush would, sanitarily speaking, be ideal."

Disease Affects Reformers.

The specialists in diseases of the human mind have given the name "paranoia" to that form of insanity in which the victim labors under a delusion involving an exaggerated and irrational conception of his own importance, wisdom, wealth and accomplishments. The political doctors and students of public questions have discovered that a similar disease attacks a certain class of reformers and has often been the cause of the failure of reform movements.

RHEUMATISM GERM FOUND
Bacillus Said to Be Cause of the Disease Discovered by New York Doctor.

New York.—After 18 years of unavailing search by scientists all over the world, the germ that causes rheumatic fever or acute articular rheumatism has been discovered as the result of experiments in the Presbyterian Hospital laboratory of this city by Dr. Lewis Fox Fissell, attending physician to the Seton hospital. The discoverer declares rheumatism is infectious.

Dr. Fissell describes to the alumni of the Presbyterian hospital his experiments. He first made an effort to isolate an organism from the fluid drawn from the joints of a rheumatic patient. This was injected into the veins of rabbits without result. Next cultures were taken from the tonsils of persons suffering from both tonsilitis and articular rheumatism. Failure again.

Finally, the experimenter selected an alcoholic woman, who was found in a hospital ward suffering from articular rheumatism of 11 years standing. A culture was taken from her tonsils. Germs were found, linked together in chains. A rabbit into which the germs were injected became lame as with rheumatism. The animal was killed and the germs taken from it were injected into ten other rabbits. All of these after a time developed the rheumatic symptoms.

The rheumatism germ, thus isolated, is described by Dr. Fissell as looking like diplococci, or streptococci. It possesses, however, a special affinity for the joints.

Dr. Fissell concludes that "while exposure to wet and damp may bring on rheumatism, the real cause is a specific germ."

Rheumatism he classes as an infectious disease, which occurs in epidemic form. Pleurisy and rheumatism of the heart, he told the alumni, were both probably due to the newly-discovered germ.

PART DOG AND PART BEAR

Singular Animal Resembles Each of Parents in Some Particulars.

Denver.—Half bear, half dog, a remarkable prodigy of nature, was brought to the city from Nebraska by I. Pinter. It is the only known example of the crossing of the dog and bear families.

Teddy is the name of the hybrid. His mother was a common stray dog of North Platte, Neb., a little bigger than a Scotch terrier and of the same general build and color. Father Bear has never been seen. The dam gave birth to a litter of five of the strange puppies, but four were born dead.

The creature is now eleven months old and weighs about 35 pounds, but looks much heavier. At first sight the animal gives the impression of a peculiar kind of dog, although on closer examination the bear peculiarities are more evident. The ears are long and drooping, like those of a spaniel, the tail is also that of a spaniel. The eyes are large and have the mild dog-like expression. A bear has short upstanding ears, a stub tail never more than a couple of inches long and the eyes are small and quite different in expression and the manner they are set in the head.

But the bear hump is very plain above the hindquarters. The legs are bear paws, thick as a man's arm and short, with pads that will, in time, make an impression similar to the human foot, and the claws are long. Teddy has never been heard to bark, but will occasionally give a modest bear's growl. In habits he is more side brain instead of upright as is the fashion in the canine world. He always lies down to eat.

The animal shows little intelligence and energy. He has not strength enough to walk upstairs and will refuse to go more than a mile at a time unless slow progress is made.

BEER TRUST IN JAPAN.

The Yokohama Mail reports the formation of a Japanese beer trust, the three beer companies, the Nippon, the Sapporo and the Osaka having agreed to unite and form one concern. This result is said to have been brought about largely by the advice of the minister of state for agriculture and commerce. The manufacture of beer in Japan amounted to 3,800,000 gallons in 1904, being almost double the production for 1902. However, the production for 1901, before the imposition of a tax, reached 4,800,000 gallons. The exports of beer in 1904 were valued at $375,000, while for the last ten months of 1905 the exports reached $650,000. Japan is increasing her sales of beer in Korea and China.

Safe and Sane France.

The results of the French elections thus far announced give the lie once more to the pessimistic forebodings of the prophet of evil. There was no building of barricades, the "orcs of disorder" were apparently absent and not accounted for, and the government will be able to reconstruct its "bloc" apparently stronger than before. France is bigger and stronger than any French party, however rabid.

Germany's Motor Output.

German firms are unable to fill all foreign orders for automobiles. Vice Consul Schlemmer of Mannheim writes that the German motor production for 1905 was $10,000,000, the export to England and France increasing 400 per cent. Twice the present possible production in Germany would not supply the demand, especially for heavy vehicles.

Siberian Train Service.

Six trains are now running daily either way on the Siberian railway, says the London Times, four being military trains carrying Russian troops returning from the far east. Of these, 400,000 had already left on January 14. The evacuation of Manchuria by Russian troops is expected to be completed early in June.

SHIRTS POISON SKIN

CHEAP COLORED GARMENTS A MENACE TO HEALTH.

Chicago Physicians Inveigh Against Underwear Offered for Sale by Conscienceless Dealers.

Chicago.—That the cheap shirt sales are a source of danger to the public health was brought out by a discussion between four physicians who had expected to be present at a meeting of the Chicago Medical society. The four physicians had prepared a short paper each on the danger accruing from the use of the cheap clothing which is being disposed of at reduced prices by various second-hand and other clothiers over the city.

Foremost among the papers was that of Dr. Charles A. Motter. Dr. Motter has been investigating the coloring of the pink shirts which have been quoted at 39 to 49 cents at various clothing stores of the city for some time and in every instance, he states, he has found that the coloring of the cheap pink shirts has been poisonous and especially deleterious if worn next to the skin, as is the case with most of the laboring men and others who buy cheap shirts.

"Underwear, especially in summer time," said Dr. Motter, "is a luxury which the poor do not indulge. The colored shirts, especially the pink ones, are source of poison because they come next to the skin. The coloring matter, which contains a large percentage of poison, comes in contact with the skin and the poison is transferred to the blood through the pores. Many cases of blood poisoning which have been referred to other causes, many of them of a supposedly internal nature, can be traced to our 39-cent shirts."

"Pink is the most dangerous color in the cheap garments. The blues and grays are the least dangerous, although there are some ingredients of blue shirts, especially of the calico pattern, which, if worn next to a sweaty skin will produce all the symptoms of blood poisoning. A red shirt if worn by a laboring man next to his skin is almost sure to cause diseases of the cuticle, if not diseases of the blood.

"If poor people could be made to understand the value of wearing at least a light suit of underwear beneath any colored shirts, no matter from whom purchased, the problem of skin diseases would be simplified, to say the least, and I believe that blood diseases would be much less frequent."

The matter of bathing among the poor has little to do with the problem of cheap shirts, according to Dr. Motter. The main efforts of physicians should be directed toward interesting the poor in the value of the use of cheap white underwear which, it is claimed, is not in vogue among the purchasers of the highly colored and highly unsanitary outer clothing.

An effort will shortly be made to interest the settlement workers of the city in the problem of sanitary underwear for the poor and the discontinuance of highly colored shirts, especially where these are worn next to the skin.

CREW FROZEN TO DEATH.

Long Missing Steamship Found in Amur River Incased in Ice.

London.—With all hands dead on board, the German steamship Soerabaya, a Russian blockade runner, which had been missing for six months, has been found near Nikolayevsk, 25 miles up the Amur river. The vessel was incased in ice and the crew had been frozen to death.

Early in the war the Soerabaya was engaged in carrying coal to Japan. Then she entered the Russian service, took on a cargo of arms and ammunition and undertook to elude the Japanese scouts and get into Vladivostok with her supplies. She could not pierce the blockade. To escape capture she took refuge in the Amur river.

This was in October, and the Soerabaya was not heard of until the other day, when natives of the desolate Amur country came across her, locked fast in the frozen river. The bodies of the crew were frozen stiff.

FAMOUS ISLAND IN PERIL.

Mont St. Michael May Be Overwhelmed by Approaching Sands.

Paris.—Destruction menaces Mont St. Michael, that rocky island crowned with Gothic architecture in St. Michael bay, an indentation of the English channel. The picturesque medieval fortress will be engulfed by encroaching sands, report has it.

The sand roofs which at low tide link the island with France's mainland are rising, and the danger is that they may become solid, compact land. Then the fortress will lose its magnificence and isolation and tourists will be deprived of the wild excitement of rushing for safety up St. Michael's steep steps before a rising tide that chases them with the speed of a horse.
